SIEGE OF JERUSALEM.

Valuable Record Found in Upper Egypt.

A record of very great interest concerning the celebrated siege of Jerusalem by Vespasian's army, under the command of Titus, has been discovered in Upper Egypt, consisting of a wooden tablet, with raised borders, or frame, bearing a Latin inscription of some fifty lines, of which thirty-seven are still perfectly legible. Apart from its historical importance this relic, with the exception of the tablets found at Pompeii, containing some accounts of a banquet there, is the most valuable specimen of Roman antiquity extant. The contents of the text, however, are what will be considered the chief result of this acquisition, because they embody the formal registration of the discharge, after long active service under the eagle, of a veteran who, as one of the Tenth Fretensis Legion, had taken a distinguished part in the Jewish campaign, and was present at the investment and sack of Jerusalem, that city, Hieropolis, being specially mentioned.

THE name of the old warrior was M. Valerius Quadratus, and is the newly-recovered document he formally attests that it is a duplicate of an Imperial edict promulgated in his favour, and in that of some other veterans in the legion, by the Emperor Domitian, by the hands of the Imperial Legate, Sextus Horretilius Campanus, in December, A.D. 83. One copy of the honourable discharge was, the tablet states, deposited in the proper temple for containing such archives at Rome, as was the custom with all such military deeds registering completion of service, whilst the other had been forwarded from Rome to the Governor of Egypt, M. Junius Modestus Rufus, and was kept in the Chancery at Alexandria. It is of this Egyptian edition of his discharge that Quadratus, on his tablet record, gives us a copy which he had made upon July 2nd, A.D. 94, at Alexandria.

RECORDED IN EGYPT.
The old soldier had probably been recruited in Egypt, because it is known that before the Jewish war the Tenth Legion was stationed there. He retired with his three children to end his days at the little town of Philadelphia in the Fayum. There, amid the ruins of his house, among a number of papyrus documents of the second century, the tablet he dearest prize was found. This would seem to show that the residence was occupied by his children after his decease. Many Roman military diplomas, somewhat similar to this one, have been found, but for some special reason the new document is more lengthy, containing many names of consuls and officials and a fuller text, and is also attested by the names of nine witnesses. Moreover, it describes that the three children of Quadratus, who were all born during his military service, and therefore at a time when he could not be legally married, were accorded the valued right of Roman citizenship as if born in true wedlock. Other metrical inscriptions have been found of officers who took part in the famous Palestine campaign, usually styled therein the "Bellus Judaeorum," but this is the first authentic contemporary document emanating from a soldier actually engaged in the siege of Jerusalem and referring to that event, thus confirming the statements of Josephus and the classic historians.

ODD WEDDING PLACES.

Although the vast majority of brides and bridgemen are quite content to have the nuptial knot tied in church, there are a few who prefer to be fastened in an odd environment. To be "spliced" on a swinging trapeze would not be everyone's choice, yet that was the scene selected on one occasion by two couples of circus performers. The contracting parties, gorgeously arrayed—climbed on to two aerial perches, one on each side of the ring, while the officiating magistrate stood on a pyramid in the centre and conducted the service. In 1897 a wedding occurred in a still more curious and dangerous place—in a lion's cage at Boston Zoo. Something like four thousand people witnessed the event.
A Methodist clergyman conducting it. The reverend gentleman, however, stood outside the cage, and, at the proper moment, the bride and bridegroom followed the keeper into the cage, which contained two large lions, and the steel-barred door was closed behind them. The whole thing was over in five minutes, but it must have seemed years to the couple, considering that the lions walked round the cage staring at the unusual sight, and then laid down, roaring alternately. On another occasion a couple had the romantic idea of being married inside the head of the colossal figure of the Goddess of Liberty, which stands in New York Harbour. The head being a hollow chamber, the feat was made feasible and was duly carried out, after the bride party had mounted the three hundred feet of narrow stairs to reach their destination.

Marriages have now and again taken place on horseback, one such being between an eloping couple some years back. While a service was in progress in a village church the noise of clattering hoofs was heard. An official going to the entrance found a man and woman mounted on palpitating animals.
After some persuasion, as the pair were armed with necessary authority, the clergyman promptly married them; the lovers not dismounting during the process. As soon as it was ended they put spurs to their horses and galloped away into the darkness.
Another instance was afforded by a country gentleman, who was so enamoured of hunting that he resolved not to kneel at the ceremony but to go through the marriage performance while seated on the back of his favourite horse. The bride, being also a keen rider to hounds, at once agreed, and she and all the rest of the wedding party appeared similarly mounted.
The gentlemen wore red coats and top-boots and the ladies riding habits; when the knot had been tied a regular hunt breakfast was partaken of.

Carrriages, too, have sometimes been brought into requisition as marriage places.
An American couple, whose honeymoon was to be passed in Europe, conceived the notion of being made one just before the boat sailed. Hiring a carriage and pair, and accompanied by a magistrate, they started for the wharf a few minutes before the ship's departure. As the horses were trotting along at a rapid rate the magistrate went through the marriage ceremony and the couple left the vehicle husband and wife. They had scarcely time to scramble on board the liner and it started on its voyage across the Atlantic. A Maltese merchant was also married in a carriage, his nuptials being celebrated in an atmosphere of romance. At the time he was more or less horsed de combat in a private hospital, but even there Cupid made his presence known; so much so that the merchant and one of the nurses fell in love with one another and determined to marry. The nurse managed to smuggle her patient into a carriage, in which they drove to a neighbouring village, where the minister came out to the carriage and it is they were married. But a more odd consequence in which to get spliced was a perambulator. The bridegroom had been crippled and deformed since birth, and to meet the difficulty the registrar married him in his pram, in which he was afterwards
whisked home by the bride.

So far, it would seem, marriages have not been performed in motor-cars or flying machines, although one may rest assured that they will soon be utilised for such purposes.
The clergyman who officiated at the wedding ceremony, some years ago a balloon was turned into a church and a happy though nervous couple made husband and wife therein. During the Chicago World's Fair some years ago the Ferris Wheel, of which the Big Wheel at Earl's Court was a near relative, was one of the chief attractions, and an enterprising couple elected to be married in it. Accordingly they were wedded two hundred and fifty feet above the heads of the gazing and interested crowd. And, as there is no accounting for tastes, it is not surprising to learn that even the bowels of the earth have been chosen for a wedding. Such an event in a coal mine would be a matter of fact as it is in a romance. A marriage in the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, where yuccas and crocuses have been pictured by many pen until the reader has been made almost nervous by the descriptions. Nevertheless, this eerie cave was the scene of a knot-tying. It was performed by the light of torches, which made the darkness of the cave, if anything, more intense, the spot selected being something like nine miles from the entrance to the cave, and only reached after crossing Styx-like waters and crawling on hands and knees.—The Globe.

THE BIRD IN THE HAND

(A BIRD IN THE HAND IS WORTH TWO IN THE BUSH.)

THE bird in the hand' to the merchant is the customer within the store. It requires some sort of attraction in the first place to get the customer there; about the best attraction is a real, live advertisement;
something good that will catch the eye that has been carefully written, and which is not a mere advertisement set up for the sake of being there. The China Mail advertisements in this paper read the best,
look the best and give the best results.

FEARED PERMANENT DISFIGUREMENT.

VICTIM TO AGGRESSIVE SEX ENTHUSIASM IN COLUMBIA GUARD BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Not purgative and not weakening, but blood-purifying, blood-strengthening, and blood-making all the while, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills possess in the fullest degree the essential necessary to cure eruptions on and discharges of the skin.

"The doctor told me that I was suffering from blood poisoning when my face became covered with boils about six months ago," said Henry P. Foster, of Valle Road, Colombo. "He gave me alternatives and blood purifiers but they did me not the least bit of good. I presented a deplorable appearance, and the boils were so large on my neck that I found it painful to swallow food. Even the mere action of washing my face was attended with excruciating pain."

"For over a year I suffered in this dreadful manner, during which time I tried many different medicines on the recommendation of friends, each of whom seemed to have his pet remedy, but all failed, and at last I began to fear I should be disfigured for life."

On holiday occasions, such as funerals, they wear peculiar horn-shaped hats about ten inches long, four-sided in shape, with a pyramid point at one end, and a spoon bowl at the other. They are made in inch sections of yellow and black horn and stand up on the women's heads in the most aggressive way. None of these pins keep the hair steady; it slips in every direction, and frequently hangs over the ear in the most disgusting manner. The women's black hair is very much plastered with pig fat, so that it shines brightly in the light, and sometimes, when recently dressed, the knob of hair stands up like a jampan on their heads, and often a woman may be seen twisting up her long thick coils during the day."

There is an amusing description of a visit paid to one of the great noblemen of the ancient regime when they were independent kings of Lu-Chu, for the islands were only annexed in 1879. They visited the nobleman, Omura San, and after removing their shoes, they were introduced to their host. They were then introduced to their host's mother, aunt, and family, comprising four generations.

"Suddenly Omura San asked if the English lady would mind showing them how she did up her hair. So she pulled out her many hairpins, and instantly the females present ran round to the open balcony behind her, and felt her hair in turn; they said they thought it very soft, like silk. It was very difficult to do it up again creditably without a comb or looking-glass, but they were much interested in the performance. Then they examined the few ornaments we had about us, asking many questions. The idea of a wedding ring struck them as a great joke, for they have evidently very little respect for married life. We asked how many children our host had; he immediately left the room to consult with someone. When he returned and said, 'Ten.' It seemed difficult at first to know why he had quitted the apartment after such a simple question had been asked, but we had heard him in the distance evidently talking to some woman. Our Japanese friend told us privately that he had a great many children, so that the query had confused him for the moment, and it was necessary to calculate just which were his wife's children and which were not."

Another article which comes under the heading of "Travel and Exploration" is one entitled "Ships and Expeditions of Camp Life" by "Frontiersman," in which many hints and wrinkles for explorers and travellers in uncivilized regions are given. Another distinctly informative article is in Mr. P. C. Asch's "The Traveller at Sea." This contains much advice of use even to the seasoned traveller. The sporting article in this number deals with moose hunting in Nova Scotia, while, what may be described as a natural history article, is a well-written paper by "Arctic," full of keen observations on the flora and fauna of the Western Ghats. Two holiday articles, "Some Alpine Passes," by Francis Gribble, and one on "Finland: The Land of a Thousand Lakes," appears appropriately at the present juncture. "The Horse in Art" is a humorously cynical paper by "Searchlight," in which he shows up the absurd artistic fallacies in horse pictures, which are occasionally perpetrated in the illustrated papers.

"A FLOATING, HORNLESS DRAGON."

In August Travel and Exploration is an informative paper on the little known Lu-Chu Islands by Mr. Walter J. Clutterbuck, who wrote an interesting and remarkable book on British Columbia some years ago. The Lu-Chu group is one of the most important islands in the Japanese Archipelago. The Chinese characters forming its old name—the Japanese have christened the islands the Okinawa Pipi-focture—mean, we are told, "a floating hornless dragon," from the supposed resemblance to a dragon without horns resting on the waters. Mr. Clutterbuck seems to know almost as much about the islands as Mr. B. H. Chamberlain, the great authority on things Japanese, and the record of his experiences is unusually interesting. He is a singularly observant traveller, as the following description of the costume of women at a native funeral indicates:—

tion of the funnel means in actual warfare. A ship displaying no such distinctive target as the funnels present will be at an immeasurable advantage over its rival, even though it be a super-Dreadnought. Then the saving of valuable space below deck, which the installation of motors or internal combustion engines means is another great step forward which all sailor men will appreciate. Of course the new engine of destruction can hardly be expected to be accounted a thing of beauty, especially by those who know of no finer sight on the face of the heaving waters than a full-rigged ship drawing every stitch of canvas that she can possibly carry. But then beauty generally has to succumb to utility when we let loose "the dogs of war" and the newest thing in battleships is being built solely for its offensive and destructive qualities.

There is little doubt that the experiment will be watched with the keenest interest all over the world, for if it eventuates successfully it means nothing short of a revolution in present ship-building methods. As it speaks of it already as foreshadowing the eclipse of the much-praised Dreadnought class, which for the moment are demonstrating in many navies the high-water mark in naval construction and offensive qualities. If so this very costly type of fighting machine has had a very short reign—a reign entirely bloodless, for none of them have been put to the test of action. But it is a little premature to speak of their supersession yet awhile, we imagine. There is such a thing as counting one's chickens before the eggs are hatched, and it would therefore be as well for us all in the new historic phrase of Mr. Asquith, "to wait and see." The idea may even be improved upon before the new ship takes to the water. Besides, we don't know what foreign navies may have up their sleeves wherewith to trump "the last word in naval construction."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Admiral of David Livingstone all over the world will, in 1913, celebrate the centenary of his birth.

There is no port which is safe for the aeroplane in a storm save the solid ground and the worst of it is this ground is so terribly solid. Saturday Review.

A mother, whose son is a miner, had met with an accident, exclaimed in broken tones: "Ay! when he was carried home he was conscious, as before they could perform the operation they had to give him glyster."

Plans are now afoot to provide the Jewish community in East London with a playhouse of their own, and this all in Jewry may participate in the venture a limited liability company is being formed to raise £12,000 as the necessary capital.

"Let us remember," writes Mrs. Flora Annie Steel, the novelist, in the Times "that every man is half a woman; every woman half a man; that which is evanescent—or female—in both will disappear; that which is permanent—or male—will endure."

In an article on boy cricket in the Saturday Review, the writer says: "It is delightful to hear the confident cheer which bursts invariably from the boys' stands when the last batsman, with an average of three, steps forth to deal with a situation which requires a century."

In their annual report the Committee of Council on Education in Scotland state that savings banks have been established in 320 schools, and the amount standing to the credit of the 46,834 depositors at the end of the school year was as much as £17,296.

It is stated that while the Grand Duke and Duchess of Hesse were bathing during their visit to Flies, a Press photographer "snapped" them. The Duke, however, espied him, and putting up his hand, he shouted, "No, no." The Press photographer, although he had taken the photograph, readily destroyed the negative, and apologized to the Grand Duke, who came out of the water to see him—and, in the words of the photographer, the Grand Duke was "exceedingly nice."

Wireless telephoning from a moving train was accomplished on July 26 for the first time with complete success on a stretch of railway line between Hoxley and Three Bridges on the Brighton Railway. Travelling by a fast train a railway official spoke to an inspector in a signalbox as clearly and easily as if the train had been stationary and connected by wire with the box. The fact which distinguishes Mr. von Kramer's system from any other previously tried in England or America is that the electric impulses travel through the bridge on the carriage and ground wires through an open-air space of 13 ft.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

H.M.S. Clio came into port from the North to-day. She is flying her paying-off pennant.

The Hamburg-American Shipping Company is building a 9,000-ton steamer to be driven by a motor.

From a London suburban notice board: "Private road. Objectionable traffic and funerals are prohibited."

The Civil Service sports, postponed on account of the death of King Edward, will come off, we understand, sometime in October.

The Ballymore Board of Guardians have passed a resolution of protest against Mr. Lloyd-George's proposal to give old-age pensions at the cost of the ratepayers.

The brittle man—whose muscles are turning to bone—is undergoing new treatment in London, and already, it is stated, the muscles of the neck have softened.

It was reported that the Sleaford Guardians, that a woman who had been chargeable as a lunatic since February, 1882, and recently died, had cost the Guardians £1,365 for her maintenance.

The gunners of His Majesty's ship Natal have added to the existing fine records of British gunners. Firing with a 9.2 inch gun she made 54 hits in six rounds, a record which she scored in the half.

The King of Portugal has accepted an oak sapling from Mr. Lumsden, of Worcester. The World says it was grown from an acorn found in a pheasant shot by King Carlos during his visit to Wood Norton in 1904.

"We're all single but one stray couple," said the spokeswoman of the party of over a hundred and sixty Canadian girls teachers on arrival at Liverpool, "but we brought a minister with us. He may be handy."

Thomas Morris, a centenarian, who has died at Oldhill, was the father of twenty-one children. His total descendants number nearly 300. In his young days Morris was a wrought nailmaker, and he trained a monkey successfully to blow the bellows.

In a police assault, heard at Wakefield, it was stated that in rapid succession the defendant, a miner, hurled a flat-iron, a pint pot, a jam jar, and a salt cellar at the officer. He concluded the bombardment by attacking the policeman with a coal rake.

The statement published in a contemporary to the effect that the residence, "Glenholme," Kimberley Road, Kewton, was yesterday sold for $1,600, and that a further linked lot at Kewton was knocked down for $1,900 is incorrect. The sale does not take place until September 8th.

Serious bread riots have broken out at Bari, the capital of an Adriatic-Italian province. The huge mob of 7,000 starving people marched through the town seeking and rioting. The mob was composed of the employees of the cotton, silk, linen and soap factories, for which the town is noted, as well as dock hands.

Chinatown in Cardiff was the scene of a disturbance on August 11. The Chinese inhabitants, who for some time past have been the subject of much criticism, broke out and for some time were extremely violent. Eventually a strong force of police quelled the riot, arresting fourteen of the ringleaders.

Thirty years ago the number of sheep in the British Empire was roughly 120 millions, of which Australia contributed just under 50 millions. A recent compilation gives the flock of the Empire as about 200 millions, of which the Australian Commonwealth provides close upon half. This calculation includes Australia, Canada, Cape Colony, Ceylon, India, Natal, Orange River Colony, Transvaal, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom. The total number of sheep in the world is about 480 millions, so that the British Empire contains about 41 per cent. of the world's sheep, as against about 26 per cent. three decades ago.

A German named W. Hochstadt was yesterday walking along Des Voeux Road West when a native snatched a pocket-book from his jacket. The former immediately looked around but found no one running. However, he saw a Chinese calmly walking along with the note-book tucked away under his arm. He gave chase and caught the thief, whereupon another native ran along with a police whistle and exclaimed, "I'm a policeman" and asked that he should take charge of the culprit. The German, however, refused to part with his man until a uniformed policeman appeared on the scene. In the meantime the other man had made himself scarce, and there can be little doubt but that he was one of a gang of thieves of which the captured man was also a member.

SOMETHING RELIABLE.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery, or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children, and adults. For sale by all chemists and druggists.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Late the other day, at Wampori Delt, a motor car, at full speed, ran over a tiger on the roadway. It was sighted too late to think of stopping. The occupants of the car drove on without sustaining the loss of the tiger.

The rubber boom has clouded the prospects of tobacco growing companies in Java. The value of tobacco shares on the market depends now more upon the chances of the land being put under rubber than upon the likelihood of getting a fine crop of the leaf.

The rubber fever is raging in Basasin, India, where cultivators are looking about for seeds of theobroma. Fabulous prices have been paid recently for rubber gardens in Burma, and there are indications that an extensive area will soon be under rubber.

A large crowd of excursionists are making the trip to Macao on Sunday by the s.s. Houghman in order to witness the funeral procession of the brave Portuguese officer, Colonel Mesquita. A portion of the Rajputs land has been secured to supply music on the run.

An eccentric character has been buried at Hallow-on-Trent. According to his last wishes, he was confined in his best suit of clothes, brown boots, cane in hand, and cap on head, which in fact, with chain attached, and a few coins in his pocket. The dead man, George Crowder, was for many years porter at the Briggs Workhouse.

Mr. Marcus Stone, B.A., who has just celebrated his seventieth birthday says he is persuaded that the connection between uncorrected mothers and long-lived sons of talent is more than accidental, and he believes that the improvement to the race caused by the more sober and steady habits of men to-day might be greatly advanced by sinner costumes on the part of women.

At this season of the year the tennis players in the Shetland Isles take advantage of the peculiar light known as "summer dim" to engage in one or two midnight tennis parties. Quite recently the Bellona Club had their annual midnight party. The "summer dim" was hidden at 10.30 by distant clouds, but the game was started about 11 p.m., though fast play was out of the question. By 1 a.m. it was practically broad daylight.

We understand that a concert is on the tapis at Macao in aid of the funds to be devoted to the memorial in honour of the late Colonel Mesquita. It is probable that the event will take place on the first Saturday in September, and it is likely that the services of the Rajputs band will be obtained. If the preliminaries are satisfactory the Sri Tai will be engaged to take the band to and fro, leaving on the Saturday at 2 p.m. For the convenience of trippers special arrangements may be made to enable the holders of return tickets to sleep on board.

Within the last month five shiploads, numbering 1,000, of Punjab Mahomedans and Sikhs, have left Calcutta for Hongkong. Many assert that they will go to California, whence relatives have written that they have found good land. They said that other Punjabis are also preparing to emigrate. The American Consul-General at Calcutta states that none of the men visited his office. They will probably be refitted at San Francisco; but the habit of such is to go on to Canada and then across the land frontier. He believed that the United States will make representations. All the emigrants, who are not taking their families, belong to the fighting castes, and hope to obtain employment as police and watchmen.

THE ABSORPTION OF KOREA.

OPINION IN LONDON.

Varying Views of the Press.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LONDON, August 26.

In London the impending annexation of Korea by Japan is described as the turning point in Far Eastern history, while a fascinating question is how far Japan will go.

The Conservative papers consider the change more nominal than real, as they hold that the independence of Korea has been merely a polite fiction.

The Radical Daily News says that the annexation is being carried out with a ruthlessness which supplies a terrible forecast of Oriental Imperialism.

The Times declares that it has been plain for some time that the incorporation of Korea and Japan is the only sound solution of many difficulties which have arisen since Japan finally abandoned her insular position. The journal concludes—"We are convinced that Japan will face her larger destinies with that lofty, unflinching courage always distinguishing her in high politics."

We have received a copy of the Schedule for the 1911 Flower and Vegetable Show of the Hongkong Horticultural Society.

The Schedule is on similar lines to previous ones. Among the few additions we find that four classes have been introduced for those who do not employ a gardener. This should be appreciated by the strictly amateur horticulturists.

AMERICAN POLITICS.

President Taft said to be

Tired of Squabbles.

The following Washington telegram appears in the Call of the American, of Manila:—The Republican Party is in a condition bordering on demoralization. President Taft is described in the dispatches from Severly as tired of politics and "foundering." The conservatives are bewildered by the resistance of Roosevelt to the "insurgent" wing of the party and his activity. Some of them blame the President for not making a greater effort to save the organization and others criticize him for the efforts he has made.

The President's private secretary, Mr. Norton, who has entered actively into the movement to harmonize the party and has, since he began his duties, relieved his chief of much of the political management of his position, says the President, is distressed over the failure of the custody of Ballinger, Aldrich, Hale and Cannon to satisfy the insurgents and appease Pinchot and stop his onslaught on the Administration's friends.

The latest sensation in the political world is a demand for Roosevelt that President Taft break with Vice President Sherman. The demand is based on the evidence that has been adduced in the Congressional investigation of the bribery charges of Senator Gore, connecting Vice President Sherman's name with the Indian land grant scandal and his associations in New York politics.

RESTAURANT PROPRIETOR SUED.

Mr. J. H. Gardiner sued R. F. Daly, before Mr. Justice Macleod, at the Supreme Court this morning, to recover $41.50.

Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared for plaintiff and Mr. E. Hind defended.

Mr. Goldring said defendant consented to judgment subject to the taxation of costs.

Another case by E. A. Aboody against the same defendant for $833.33 was also mentioned, Mr. J. H. Gardiner appearing for plaintiff and Mr. E. Hind defending.

Mr. Gardiner said the case arose out of a promissory note and Mr. E. Hind thought it would be necessary to have a commission at Shanghai.

The case was adjourned for a week.

NON APPEARANCE OF PLAINTIFFS.

Six Chinese sued the Hamburg-Ak Line before Mr. Justice Macleod at the Supreme Court this morning to recover altogether $423.68.

Mr. E. Davidson appeared for defendants and said that his Lordship had made an order some months ago that a statement of claim should be made and it was arranged that the case should not be proceeded with as the steamship Andria would not be in port until September. Nothing had been done until he had gone to see Mr. Hung, plaintiffs' solicitor, at the boat would be here earlier than at first expected. Mr. Hung had said that he had no further instructions from his clients.

His Lordship—I should not like to make the order in the absence of Mr. Hung.

On arrival, after having been sent for, Mr. Hung said he had no further instructions as he had not been able to see his clients.

His Lordship—Do you make an application for an adjournment?

Mr. Hung—I think it had better be adjourned for a week.

Mr. Davidson—My friend has had ample time.

His Lordship—I am disposed to adjourn it. These men must have gone to get work.

Mr. Davidson—My clients should have something definite from your Lordship. If my friend cannot urge anything for a postponement the case should be dismissed.

His Lordship—There must be some strong grounds why it should not be struck out next week.

The case was adjourned.

A COAL THEFT.

At the Magistrate's this afternoon, before Mr. J. R. Wood, a Chinese woman, the owner of a lighter, and two male members of the crew, were charged with stealing 14 tons of coal, the property of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton prosecuted and Mr. P. W. Goldring defended.

The evidence was to the effect that the lighter was chartered to convey a cargo of coal from a ship in harbour to the M. B. K. godown, and that on arrival at the latter place it was found that there was a shortage of 14 tons. The defence was that the lighter was delayed owing to damaged sails and that on the way the side-board slipped off and the 14 tons were lost in the sea.

His Worship, after hearing the evidence, said he should convict the woman and she would like to hear Mr. Shenton on the liability of the other two defendants.

Mr. Shenton said these two men were the only others on the junk and whether they were principals or not was immaterial. If there was a larceny they must have taken part in it. No man was bound to commit a crime, he had the perfect liberty to refuse to do so. The two defendants must have known if the coal was taken off that they were committing a crime. The mere fact of their being sailors did not exonerate them from guilt in the matter.

His Worship—Then the guilt might extend to a dozen or more?

Mr. Shenton—No doubt every man, woman and child on the boat at the time would be liable for the crime.

His Worship—I am not prepared to convict on the fact of their presence merely. I think that would be rather dangerous.

The woman was sentenced to six months' hard labour and the others were discharged.

REVIEW.

The Lone Hand, Sydney Bulletin Office.

The Lone Hand for August contains many readable articles and several very good stories of Australian life in the back-blocks. Edith Humphries writes sympathetically of the youth of Adam Lindsay Gordon, the poet, making out a bad case for Cheltenham, the birthplace of the man who wrote so splendidly regarding horses. Mr. E. E. Newell takes one to the most active volcanoes in the world, which are situated on Savaii, the Hawaiki of Polynesian mythology. "Toro" is rather a brutal story told by Roderic Quinn while a good deal of imagination enters into "At the Song of the Moon"—a love story of the Maritimes. The Reminiscences of the late Mr. E. W. O'Sullivan, M.L.A., recall many a stirring incident in Australian politics. The Snapshots at Lifes are generally humorous, while a capital satirical article which tells us "How the Kookaburra learns to laugh." Mr. J. Barr discusses that thorny subject, the Liquor Question in Australasia and makes out a good case for the sobriety of the Commonwealth and the Dominion, while he points out the evils which have followed upon a too strict temperance policy in New Zealand. A very informative article is that on Southern Star-scapes, by Mr. Frank Garner, which again emphasises the puny speck the Earth is when compared with, say, Canopus.

THE SALT MONOPOLY AGAIN.

We recently reported some of the difficulties connected with the carrying out of the new Government regulations relative to the Salt Monopoly in Kwangtung. The head of the monopoly has now received a telegram from Peking which shows that at the capital they are determined to hold the reins in their own hands. Some of the lesser officials apparently are resigning. The telegram orders that before their accounts are closed all matters must be looked into carefully and every effort made to see that all the figures are correct. All details both of income and expenditure are to be inserted, and it is to be clearly set forth what is new expenditure and what is old. In future no new expenditure is to be incurred except what has first been sanctioned from Peking. It will be seen from the promulgation of these new regulations that the authorities at head-quarters are gradually tightening their hands upon the reins of local government and if they can prevent it the officials are no longer to spend any "petty cash" as they deem fit, without its first being allowed, while afterwards a detailed statement must be submitted.

HORRIBLE CRUELTY IN CANTON.

A terrible case of cruelty has come to light in Canton, which throws a sidelight on the way Chinese do things. In Tai Fa Street lived a man and his wife whose names were Ha. They had a small business, but the amount of their transactions never seemed to warrant the style in which they lived. It has now transpired that the woman kept a baby farm. She went out and purchased female infants from impecunious mothers, and reared them, her purpose being when the maidens had reached the age of seventeen, to sell them to well-to-do men as concubines. It thus came to pass that attractive girls often noted large sums of money to their father. A thousand dollars is not deemed an extravagant sum to be given for a concubine when she is attractive. On the other hand those who bid fair to be unattractive were made to lead a terrible life, being subjected to the most barbarous treatment. No one, however, suspected the kind of thing that went on inside the house. A few days ago two young girls were found drowned in a contiguous fishpond. It came to light that they were inmates of the house of Mrs. Ha. It now known that they went forth hand in hand in the darkness and flung themselves into the pond, preferring an early death to the treatment to which they had been subjected. When their bodies were recovered it was found that they were a mass of wounds and bruises. There was hardly a sound inch of skin on their persons, and these bruises were the result of whippings and other horrible treatment to which they had daily been subjected. Of course there was a great hubbub. The parents of the maidens came clamouring for recompense for the indignity that had been offered to their children, and now "the man and his wife hardly dare to lay their heads on their pillow or their persons upon their mats at night, fearing lest the spirits of the departed shall return and be revenged by cutting away either the man or the woman into the lower world." What will be done by the officials is not yet known, but that the system of baby farming is bad needs no lengthy exposition.

FATAL PIRACY NEAR CANTON.

On the night of the thirteenth of the present Chinese month a boat from Lung Chau, laden with firewood, was nearing Canton. At nine o'clock she anchored in the Pun Yu district at a place named Yue Chau, when she was suddenly attacked by pirates. The helmsman, who went to the stern of the ship to warn them off, was shot through the head, and fell dead into the water. The pirates then climbed into the boat and robbed it of everything of any value that it possessed, even to the bag of rice carried for the sailors. They then annexed a second anchor. The pirates made no pretence of secrecy, creating a great hubbub as they went about their work but though there were other boats near none ventured to come to the assistance of the boat attacked. Of course after the pirates had gone there were plenty of protestations of fear and dread, as a reason why so help was forthcoming, and probably those who stood by were justified in their attitude of non-interference. When the boat reached Canton the owners were informed of what had happened; so were the officials. It is not likely the latter will be able to bring the pirates to justice.

ROUND THE WORLD IN A NINE TON YAWL.

Captain G. D. Blythe, of Coventry, a member of the British mercantile service, has undertaken an adventurous voyage round the world in a yawl of only nine tons. The yawl was specially built for him at Perth, Western Australia, and is named the Pandora. Her measurements are: Length over all, 36 ft. 9 in.; beam, 14 ft. 11 in.; and depth, 4 ft. 11 in. She made the first part of the voyage splendidly from Dunbar, Western Australia, to Melbourne, from which port Captain Blythe has sent home his first account of the voyage. The Pandora will proceed to Sydney, thence to New Zealand, Pitcairn Island, Juan Fernandez, the Falkland Isles, and the United States. Then the little vessel will sail across the Atlantic Ocean to England and return to Australia by way of the Cape of Good Hope. If successful, the Pandora will be the smallest craft that has ever accomplished the voyage.

HONOURING THE BRAVE
MESQUITA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MACAO, August 25.
The Church that disowned him and the country that degraded him have just amply retrieved the memory of the patriot soldier, Colonel Yicente Nicolau de Mesquita, hero of Passaleto and avenger of Amara.
At 9.30 a.m. this morning the Very Rev. Don Bartholomew officiated at a Solemn Requiem in the Cathedral attended by Canon Luz and Riza. His Lordship the Bishop of Macao assisted pontifically, being waited on by the whole choir body and a train of 60 acolytes. To the right of the main altar, on a raised dais, was His Excellency the Governor Senhor Ed. Marques and at the foot of the steps leading to the nave was ranged all the naval, military, civil and consular authorities of the Colony, among them being Mr. Alfredo J. Vieira Ribeiro and members of the Hongkong Committee, also Colonel Jose Luis Marques, promoter and president of the Mesquita Committee, and members. The choir consisted, as rendered by St. Joseph's choir. The Very General Rev. Fr. Costa Nunes delivered a most stirring panegyric on the value of the Portuguese soldier and detailed the many sterling merits of the deceased, laying special stress on his devotion to his fellow-men. Following his discourse the Bishop proceeded to the solemn blessing of the mortal remains which lay under a pall, a three foot casket, on the summit of a catafalque which rose pyramidally from a sea of greenery dotted with wax-lights. At its foot lay a very elaborate wreath with pretty festoons and a white centre which read: "The Fatherland thou didst so well honour, now honour thee in return."—1849-1910—round a military emblem. By its side lay another elegant wreath—the tribute of the Army. The ceremony was very touching and the funeral cortege was a grand sight. The Hongkong and Macao Committees and the civil officials and members of the various institutions. The whole Church was draped in black and white and the conspicuous catafalque containing the remains of the late Col. Mesquita was very imposing. The music from St. Joseph's College under the Jesuit fathers. The funeral oration delivered by the eloquent orator, the Rev. Fr. Costa Nunes, was so impressive that it moved many present to tears. His Lordship the Bishop of Macao officiated pontifically with the assistance of the full choir.

THE TWO MACAO HEROES.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

MACAO, August 25.
The Requiem service held at St. Joseph's of Macao on Thursday morning was very impressive. Never perhaps has such a solemn function taken place in Macao. The Church was crowded and the space between the chancel and the nave was fully occupied by officials, military and naval officers, the Hongkong and Macao Committees and the civil officials and members of the various institutions. The whole Church was draped in black and white and the conspicuous catafalque containing the remains of the late Col. Mesquita was very imposing. The music from St. Joseph's College under the Jesuit fathers. The funeral oration delivered by the eloquent orator, the Rev. Fr. Costa Nunes, was so impressive that it moved many present to tears. His Lordship the Bishop of Macao officiated pontifically with the assistance of the full choir.

The most attractive wreaths were those from the Hongkong Deputation Committee with the inscription—Honoremus a patria, 1849—8 a patria remembris hodie nos consepulcra, 1910. In the centre the arms of the Archdiocese were seen with great advantage, they being in relief and distinct from the inscriptions. Another beautiful bi-colored wreath artistically arranged was from the Portuguese Navy.

The Hongkong Committee had a very busy day yesterday with official calls on His Excellency the Governor, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Almeida Castro, the President of the Land Senado and the President of the Macao Committee and to the only survivor out of the 38 heroes who marched out with the hero Mesquita, for the taking of Passaleto fort and who is now in his 86th year.

In the evening at 5.30 o'clock a special session was held at the Grande Militar under the presidency of H. E. Governor Marques, who made an eloquent speech in which he invited the Grand Jury to unveil the portrait of the late hero Governor Ferreira de Amaral, and Mr. A. J. V. Ribeiro, the president of the Hongkong Committee, to unveil that of the Colonel Mesquita. Then Lieut. Col. Marques and the very Rev. Fr. Costa Nunes were called upon to deliver discourses. Needless to say, both these gentlemen were enthusiastically received and applauded by the audience. Mr. Marques was very patriotic and enthusiastic in the task which he performed with great energy, and the Rev. Fr. Costa Nunes with his well known eloquence kept the audience vastly interested. The beautiful hall of the Grémio was fully occupied by the members of this institution and their families and friends.

In order to mark the anniversary of this memorable event, all public and private buildings were illuminated at night by electricity and lanterns.

The Shanghai Portuguese Volunteers arrived at Macao yesterday by the s.s. San On and were received at the wharf by the Macao Committee and lodged in special quarters.

A grand ball is to be held at the Macao Club on Saturday evening in honour of the Portuguese in the Far East.

HAMBRELLIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

There is probably no medicine made that is relied upon with more implicit confidence than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. During the third of a century in which it has been in use, people have learned that it is the one remedy that never fails. For pain in the stomach, diarrhoea or infantile cholera, this remedy has no equal. It has been used in many serious and dangerous cases and has never been known to fail. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. For sale by all chemists and storekeepers.

EYE DISEASE IN EGYPT AND PALESTINE.

Among other benefits which have been incidental to the British occupation of Egypt, and which would almost certainly diminish or disappear if that occupation were discontinued, a position by no means insignificant must be accorded to the systematic measures for encountering and subduing eye disease, which have now been extended, by means of travelling hospitals, even to the most remote parts of the country. It is matter of common knowledge that the Egyptian people, and especially the fellahs and the villagers, suffer from diseases of the eye, and from blindness consequent upon those diseases, to an extent unknown elsewhere and there can be no reasonable doubt that they have so suffered from time immemorial. The facts were brought home to the British authorities on the return of the army of occupation in 1901, an army which carried the contagion of the so-called Egyptian ophthalmia into Europe, and diffused it in many countries; while those of our own men who returned from the same campaign were equally unfortunate. The disease, which in Egypt was usually of comparatively moderate severity became virulent when brought to populations unaccustomed to resist it; and it spread throughout our home garrisons to such an extent that more than 2,000 English soldiers were pensioned on account of total blindness which it had produced. Even in Egypt, notwithstanding a tolerance gradually produced in the course of successive generations, ophthalmia is destructive in a considerable proportion of cases, and the amount of blindness existing in the country is probably without parallel elsewhere. No entirely trustworthy enumeration of the sufferers has ever been accomplished, but Dr. J. G. MacCallan, Chief Inspector of Ophthalmic Hospitals in Egypt, in a paper read last year before the International Medical Congress in Budapest, gave reasons for believing that in the population of eleven millions, there were about 600,000 blind of one eye and about 300,000 blind of both eyes, or 4.38 per cent of the former, 2.41 per cent of the latter, and 7.5 per cent of the two together. A population in which more than seven persons out of every hundred are blind in one eye, and more than five out of every two hundred are blind in both, is surely a very unfortunate one, and it must be remembered that innumerable cases in which the sight has not been lost, the persons who have suffered are left with distorted lids and in-growing eyelashes, and hence are a constant source of irritation.

Dr. MacCallan, to whose paper reference has been made, went out to Egypt in 1903, at the request of the Egyptian Government, and as a result of the generosity of Sir Ernest Cassel in providing for the expense, to organise and administer a travelling ophthalmic hospital and to train in ophthalmic surgery Egyptian surgeons attached to it. A second travelling hospital was soon afterwards established, also under Dr. MacCallan's general superintendence, and the ophthalmic service has since been widely beneficial. Each hospital consists of ten or twelve large Indian tents containing all necessary in the way of equipment and instruments, with two Egyptian surgeons under Dr. MacCallan's supervision, a number of attendants and servants. Ten or twelve in-patients are provided for, but the great majority of those who seek relief are treated as out-patients. Each camping ground is occupied for a period of about six months, at the end of which time the hospital is transferred to some other place. The hospitals are not generally due to any diminution in the numbers applying for treatment, but because it is considered just to extend the benefits to as many provinces as possible. In the beginning there was some doubt as to the wisdom of the plan, but the results of the hospitals have brought within their reach, but this doubt was speedily dispelled by experience, and in every locality visited there has been the same eagerness to seek for treatment. Dr. MacCallan illustrates the amount of work done by saying that in one day at Damanhour the number of new patients treated was 45, the number of old patients 415, and the number of incurable applicants 18; while 93 applicants were deferred from treatment on account of such efforts as they could make for relief. The general effect upon the public in the opinion of the wealthier classes of the country has been very remarkable, and their interest in the condition and treatment of the blind has been fairly aroused. More than 214,000 have been privately subscribed for their assistance, while the Government has been induced to spend £15,000 on building permanent eye hospitals and is giving more than £5,000 a year for their maintenance. The difficulties arising from the ignorance and poverty of the people, as well as from their crowded dwellings and their mode of life, are very considerable, but a good beginning has been made, and it is not too much to hope that one result of the occupation may be the ultimate diminution of blindness to a percentage not greatly in excess of that which exists in European countries.

While such has been the course of events in Egypt, the somewhat parallel parallel of Palestine have been to a considerable extent met by an English charity, which is less generally known than the former, but to be early in the eighties of the last century the attention of the late Sir Edmund Lechmere was directed to the amount of preventable suffering and blindness occasioned by eye disease in about Jerusalem, and he induced the Order of St. John, then working from a prolonged terror into active vitality, to establish there a hospital for such cases on an extensive scale as the funds of the Order would permit. When a new Chapter was granted to the Order by Her Majesty Queen Victoria, in 1888, the maintenance of the Eye Hospital at Jerusalem was mentioned therein as one of the principal works to be carried on; and in the same year Dr. Cant was appointed surgeon and was charged with the duty of superintending the young institution, which under his hands has become widely celebrated throughout the East, and attracts patients from many lands, one recent applicant having made his way for the purpose from Australia. In a report published by the Committee, Dr. Cant gives a general account of the work done during the last twenty years and of the extent to which it has increased, and including 1898 he was alone, and the hospital had only twenty beds, but from that date onwards he has had the help of an assistant surgeon, and the number of beds has been increased to forty, all of which are in full demand. In 1898 there were 688 new admissions of in-patients, against 1,109 in 1907, 4,431 new out-patients, against 10,206, and 1,380 operations, against 1,877. Not does the hospital stand alone, for Dr. Cant reports that large numbers of eye cases are treated at the eight or nine general hospitals in the town, and by private medical men, and by means of the out-patient, at dispensaries by unqualified practitioners, by quacks, witches, and workers with charms, who still find plenty of followers, and he adds that the diseases specially prevalent are of a destructive kind, tending either to the rapid loss or to the permanent injury of the eyes, or to their progressive impairment by chronic disease. In the prevention of such consequences the hospital has conferred incalculable benefits alike upon the townspeople and upon the neighbouring fellahs, and it is not the least of its claims that the absolute repudiation of proselytizing by the order enables the professors of all religions, Christians, Jews, and Mohammedans, to mingle freely and harmoniously, as it patients within its wards and to learn lessons of mutual forbearance, charity, and respect. Twenty years ago the Sultan showed his appreciation of the work by making a gift to the Order of the land on which the existing buildings of the hospital, but the cost of enlargements and of maintenance have had to be entirely met by the Order, or by the contributions of such of its friends as have been willing to assist, and who feel, as many do, that Palestine is a country in which the inhabitants of all others should have an undying interest. There is no part of Christendom in which the dwellers in the Holy Land should be regarded entirely as foreigners, or in which efforts to help them should be left wholly without response; and such efforts can scarcely be better directed than in the hospital to which we refer. It has had the approval and support of two very discriminating critics, in the persons of the late King Edward VII. and of the present King, who has been personally and generously assisted by the Grand Priors of the Order by which the hospital is maintained.—The Times.

CIVIL SERVICE v. KOWLOON.
The following team will represent the Civil Service against Kowloon on Saturday—

Thornhill, Adams, Woolley, Bond (skip), Fincher, Blower, Fisher, Whelan (skip), Duncan, McKay, Fife, L. E. Brett (skip). Reserves: Messrs Heathcote, McLeod, and A. Davey.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE COLONY.

The Championship Competition is rapidly drawing to a close, and a future is the good show which is being made by Police Bowlers. The representatives of law and order have now three players and a possible fourth in the semi-final, the uncertain issue being down for decision to-night, when McLoxman meets Edwards (Kowloon) at Taikeo. Last evening Gourlay (Police) played off his tie with Dickie (Taikeo) on the Civil Service green. The early stages of the play favoured Dickie, and he continued to keep the lead until he reached 17, when his opponent stood at 10. Then Gourlay came away beautifully with a couple of 4's, by which he led 18/17. Three singles in succession gave the police officer victory and assured him of a place among the semi-finalists.

The six players now left in action are Cameron, Pitt, Gourlay, McLoxman (Police) and Edwards (Kowloon). The number will be reduced to four to-night.

SOCIETY EVENTS.—Mr. Browning (pompously) "This is a great day for us, at home. My daughter comes out to-night."

Mrs. Diggle (surprised): "You don't say so, mister! So does my 'nephew'; 'e's been in for a month."—The Teller.

A PRICELESS POSSESSION.

If the supply of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy should suddenly become limited, many homes would consider a bottle of it to be a priceless possession. It is sold in almost every civilized country, and never fails to give satisfaction. For sale by all chemists and storekeepers.
